FAITH TO BIND TWO AMERICAS

Religious Unity Only Enduring
Link, Says Missionary Conference Speaker.

NEGLECTED 150 YEARS

Eighteen Young Men Soon to Leave for Foreign Fields Act as Ushers.

Christian unity was the subject of discussion before the National Missionary Congress in Memorial Continental Hall last night. Significant addresses on the subject were delivered by Shailer Mathews, dean of the Theological School of the University of Chicago, and Robert E. Speer, of New York, secretary of the Presbyterian board of foreign missions. William B. Millar, general secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, presided.

Speaking on the subject, "The Unity of the Two Americas," Mr. Speer asserted that there was no real unity between North and South America either geographically or otherwise. "However," he said, "there is a light. We have the common principle of democracy, the same common problems, the same cosmopolitan issues, the same love of peace, the same convictions of education and the same spirit of hope."

"History shows there is but one force which will really and completely unite today only one the binds across the chasm of war. This is the Christian tie. So a common religious faith and ministry must bind America."

Religion Must Bind Countries.

"For 150 years we have neglected them. Let us now recognize their brotherhood." Announcement was made that the young men who had rendered service as ushers are all student volunteers, and that ten of them are to go to the foreign field this year as missionaries. The ushers, numbering eighteen, were called to the platform.

Individual Work Needed.

Others who took part in the evening program were Messrs. Fitchley, of India; Hunter, of Pittsburgh; Carden, of Iowa; Jones, of Chattanooga; S. R. Smith, of the District; Millar, of Pennsylvania; Allison, of Virginia; Bingerman, of New Jersey, and Stick, of Maryland. Several of these speakers emphasized the importance of personal work in winning individual men to Christ.

Latin Lands Call Greatest.

The Latin lands will issue the greatest call in modern history to the missionary movement within the next year, asserted W. E. Doughty at the afternoon session.

Surgeon General W. C. Gorgas, U. S. A., addressed the congress on the subject of his relation to Christian workers in Panama during his service. He urged the members to ally themselves with all movements tending to alleviate poverty.

BLAZE DESTROYS PLEASURE YACHT

Everglades, $50,000 Vessel,
Owned by Col. Robert N.
Thompson, Is Burned.

THE HERALD BUREAU,
R. E. Knight & Son,
621-623 King Street.

Alexandria, Va., April 29.—Fire of undetermined origin at 2 o'clock this afternoon destroyed the pleasure yacht Everglades, belonging to Col. Robert N. Thompson, of Washington, while it was at the wharf of the Marine Railway and Coal Company, at the foot of Franklin street, for repairs.

Nothing remains of the big yacht but the hull. It is thought that this is not seriously damaged. The entire superstructure is destroyed and its interior gutted.

The fire lasted an hour and a half. It attracted a throng of several thousand persons, many of whom viewed the blaze from the surrounding hills.

Col. Thompson arrived in his limousine from Washington just as the flames were finishing their work. He said the yacht was built for him at Indian River, Fla., in 1903 at a cost of $50,000. He estimated the damage at fully $25,000, with that amount of insurance. The pleasure yacht was one of the finest in this section of the country. It was finished on its interior in mahogany and was a double-decker with a large number of fine staterooms.

Col. Thompson stated that there were many precious treasures aboard which money could not replace, among them being photographs of King Edward of England, the Emperor of Japan and many other celebrities.

The boat was commanded by a crew of nine, in charge of Capt. S. Wallace. All were on board when the fire started except Capt. Wallace.

The fire started, so far as could be learned, in the engine-room, beneath the floor. An alarm was turned in and the firemen arrived before it gained much headway. A plug stream and a stream from the new chemical engine were first used. Fifteen minutes after the firemen started to work the fire rained with such rapidity that the chemical engine was moved out on the wharf, and water taken from the river was used with effect. Several firemen caught in the engine-room had narrow escapes from being burned.

The members of the crew lost most of their personal belongings, together with cash. Thomas Thompson, chief engineer, lost $150. After the fire was under control he recovered a pocketbook containing $50 of this. The money was badly charred.

K. Haral, chief butler, Japanese, lost $115, and S. Gotto, second butler, Japanese, lost $117.

It is reported that there were about 80 gallons of gasoline aboard the yacht, but there were no explosions, as the fuel was in big metallic cans, which were unaffected by the fire.

The discharge of rifle bullets aboard the yacht kept the crowd at a safe distance from the fire.

MERCHANTS PLAN ELECTRIC FLAG

Retail Dealers' Association to Arrange for Permanent Display of National Emblem.

The Retail Merchants' Association is going to take the lead in promoting the display of the American flag in a unique manner, according to the plans of R. P. Andrews, president of the association.

Mr. Andrews plans to have "Old Glory" electrified so that it may be made visible both day and night. It is a new crusade of patriotism, and starting it in the National Capital, Mr. Andrews feels sure the movement will quickly radiate throughout the country.

"I have decided," said Mr. Andrews, "that at the next meeting of the board of governors of the association, I will ask the organization to take formative steps toward the establishment of a large American flag, which is to be permanently maintained and which could be unveiled or lighted for the first time with a ceremonial that would still further inspire patriotism."

"This flag should, of course, be set up in the downtown district, where it would not only be observed nightly by the thousands of residents who come downtown to view the shop windows, but would still further inspire visitors to Washington."

"I believe that the time is propitious for business men to have electric flags in front of their buildings, and if not that, that they should follow the example of the American National Bank in throwing a spotlight on 'Old Glory' as she waves at the top of that tall structure."
